Course Description

INR 4030H COS-POLS 3(3,0)Honors Diplomacy: PR: POS 2041 and consent of Honors. Concepts, theories, and methods of contemporary diplomacy; diplomatic processes in the international arena.Occasional.

This class explores the origins and development of diplomacy in the European state system that became global in the 20th Century. The origins and development of diplomacy starts with a simple question “What is Diplomacy?” We will look at the origin of diplomacy, its uses through history, and the evolution of its practice. We will explore the roles that legitimacy, ideology/religion, nationalism/national identity, balance of power, liberal internationalism and international norms have played and continue to play in diplomacy.

The course focuses on efforts to establish a secure, enduring international order following periods of intense conflict. These include the Peace of Westphalia (1648), the Congress of Vienna (1815), the Paris Peace Conference (1919) and the Yalta/Potsdam Conferences (1945). We will study in depth Westphalia, Vienna and Paris.

- The Westphalian System of sovereign states that emerged after 1648 and the Thirty Years War. We will then study the application of classic diplomacy in maintaining a balance of power through the diplomacy of the wars of the 18th Century: the War of Spanish Succession (1701-1713) and the Treaty of Utrecht (1714), then the War of Austrian Succession (1740-1748) and the Seven Years War (1756-1763) ended by the Treaties of Hubertusburg/Paris (1763).

- We will then review the diplomacy of the Wars of the French Revolution and the Napoleonic Wars, after which the class will negotiate the post-Napoleonic settlement at the Congress of Vienna (1814-1815), representing one of the major or minor European powers. Afterwards, we will examine the “Concert of Europe,” its maintenance of the European peace 1815-1914, and its collapse into the Great War in 1914.

- Then, we will look at the effort to build a new system of international relations in the Paris Peace Conference of 1919 based on collective security and the League of Nations. Students will again take on roles as one of the negotiators at Paris and see first-hand the types of compromises required to reach agreement among many states.

- Third, we will consider why the Versailles system failed in the interwar years and look at wartime diplomacy among the United States, Great Britain and the USSR. Finally, we will consider the post-war world they created after 1945 that led to the Cold War.

- The final part of the course will look at the development and role of international organizations and examine the critical issue of humanitarian intervention in a sovereign state. Students will again take on roles in the 1990's North Korean famine cvrisis crisis and examine how the United Nations and the world's nations, large and small, responded to that crisis.

- Interwoven with the study of diplomacy's historical course, the class will look at the tools and landscape of contemporary diplomacy, with a particular focus of the foreign policy system of the United States. We will look at the roles played by foreign ministries and embassies and examine the longstanding conflict/cooperation between our State and Defense Departments. We will look at the evolution of the roles played by the White House and the National Security Staff in developing and implementing American foreign policy. We will also consider the evolving roles played by civil society, Congress, the media and businesses in American foreign policy.

This is an interactive class. Students are expected to participate in discussions. Much of the class is taken up with three simulations where students take on historical roles and attempt to deal with the critical issues of the time: Congress of Vienna (1815), Paris Peace Conference (1919) and the North Korean Famine Crisis (1994). Public speaking (in class), critical analysis and effective written communication are essential.

Student Learning Outcomes

Policies for Course Grade

Makeup Work Policy

Per university policy, you are allowed to submit make-up work (or an equivalent, alternate assignment) for authorized university-sponsored activities, religious observances, or legal obligations (such as jury duty). If this participation conflicts with your course assignments, I will offer a reasonable opportunity for you to complete missed assignments and/or exams. The make-up assignment and grading scale will be equivalent to the missed assignment and its grading scale. In the case of an authorized university activity, it is your responsibility to show me a signed copy of the Program Verification Form for which you will be absent, prior to the class in which the absence occurs. In any of these cases, please contact me ahead of time to notify me of upcoming needs.

Missed/Late Assignments

Assignments are due as stated in each assignment. During the simulations, specific assignments may be later than posted if your assigned role is due to speak later in the simulation. You role sheet will provide specific guidance. Otherwise, I expect assignments to be submitted on time. Assignments that are less that 24b hours late will be graded with a one letter grade deduction. Assignments more than 24 hours late without the instructor's prior agreement may not be graded at all.

Attendance

I do not take formal attendance or grade for attendance. I rely on your professionalism and desire to learn. Not being present in class will likely affect your performance in the course. Absences during the simulations will affect your own participation grade and can affect the outcome for your delegation or faction.

- If you know you will miss a class session for a legitimate reason (including illness, serious family emergencies, special curricular requirements such as field trips, professional conferences), military obligations, severe weather conditions, and religious holidays), please let me know in advance. I will work with you to avoid any problem, including adjusting the schedule of discussions in a simulation if possible.

- Where participation is a graded activity in a simulation, it will be measured by your engagement both in the plenary sessions and in your activity between sessions on Slack discussions.

Course Accessibility

The University of Central Florida is committed to providing access and inclusion for all persons with disabilities. Students with disabilities who need access to course content due to course design limitations should contact the professor as soon as possible. Students should also connect with Student Accessibility Services (SAS) (Ferrell Commons 185, sas@ucf.edu, phone 407-823-2371). For students connected with SAS, a Course Accessibility Letter may be created and sent to professors, which informs faculty of potential course access and accommodations that might be necessary and reasonable. Determining reasonable access and accommodations requires consideration of the course design, course learning objectives and the individual academic and course barriers experienced by the student. Further conversation with SAS, faculty and the student may be warranted to ensure an accessible course experience.

Academic Integrity

Students should familiarize themselves with UCF's Code of Conduct at Student Conduct and Integrity Office. According to Section 1, "Academic Misconduct," students are prohibited from engaging in:

a. Academic misconduct is defined as any submitted work or behavior that obstructs the instructor of record's ability to accurately assess the student's understanding or completion of the course materials or degree requirements (e.g., assignment, quiz, and/or exam). Examples of academic misconduct include but are not limited to: plagiarism, unauthorized assistance to complete an academic exercise; unauthorized communication with others during an examination, course assignment, or project; falsifying or misrepresenting academic work; providing misleading information to create a personal advantage to complete course/degree requirements; or multiple submission(s) of academic work without permission of the instructor of record.

b. Any student who knowingly helps another violate academic behavior standards is also in violation of the standards.

c. Commercial Use of Academic Material. Selling of course material to another person and/or uploading course material to a third-party vendor without authorization or without the express written permission of the University and the instructor of record. Course materials include but are not limited to class notes, the instructor of record's slide deck, tests, quizzes, labs, instruction sheets, homework, study guides, and handouts.

d. Soliciting assistance with academic coursework and/or degree requirements. The solicitation of assistance with an assignment, lab, quiz, test, paper, etc., without authorization of the instructor of record or designee is prohibited. This includes but is not limited to asking for answers to a quiz, trading answers, or offering to pay another to complete an assignment. It is considered Academic Misconduct to solicit assistance with academic coursework and/or degree requirements, even if the solicitation did not yield actual assistance (for example, if there was no response to the solicitation).

Responses to Academic Dishonesty, Plagiarism, or Cheating

Students should also familiarize themselves with the procedures for academic misconduct in UCF's student handbook, The Golden Rule. UCF faculty members have a responsibility for students' education and the value of a UCF degree, and so seek to prevent unethical behavior and respond to academic misconduct when necessary. Penalties for violating rules, policies, and instructions within this course can range from a zero on the exercise to an "F" letter grade in the course. In addition, an Academic Misconduct report could be filed with the Office of Student Conduct and Academic Integrity, which could lead to disciplinary warning, disciplinary probation, or deferred suspension or separation from the University through suspension, dismissal, or expulsion with the addition of a "Z" designation on one's transcript.

Being found in violation of academic conduct standards could result in a student having to disclose such behavior on a graduate school application, being removed from a leadership position within a student organization, the recipient of scholarships, participation in University activities such as study abroad, internships, etc.

Let's avoid all of this by demonstrating values of honesty, trust, and integrity. No grade is worth compromising your integrity and moving your moral compass. Stay true to doing the right thing: take the zero, not a shortcut.

Title IX

Title IX prohibits sex discrimination, including sexual misconduct, sexual violence, sexual harassment, and retaliation. If you or someone you know has been harassed or assaulted, you can find resources available to support the victim, including confidential resources and information concerning reporting options at Let's Be Clear and UCF Cares.

Reporting an Incident or Issue

If you believe you have experienced abusive or discriminatory behavior by any faculty or staff member, contact the Office of Institutional Equity online or at 407-823-1336. You can also choose to report using the UCF Integrity Line and can report anonymously or as yourself at 1-855-877-6049 or using the online form. UCF cares about you and takes every report seriously. For more information see the Reporting an Incident or Issue Webpage.

Deployed Active-Duty Military Students

Students who are deployed active duty military and/or National Guard personnel and require accommodation should contact their instructors as soon as possible after the semester begins and/or after they receive notification of deployment to make related arrangements.

Campus Safety

At UCF Public Safety and Police, safety is the top priority. Emergencies on campus are rare, but if one should arise, it's important to be familiar with some basic safety and security concepts.

- In an emergency, always dial 911.
- Every UCF classroom has an Emergency Procedure Guide posted on a wall near the door, which will show you how to respond to a variety of situations. This guide can also be found online here.
- In the event of an active threat, remember AVOID, DENY, DEFEND. Choose the best course of action and act immediately. Watch the video here to learn more.
    - AVOID. Pay attention to your surroundings and have an exit plan. Get as much distance and as many barriers between you and the threat as quickly as possible.
    - DENY. When avoiding is difficult or impossible, deny the threat access to you and your space. Lockdown by creating barriers, turning the lights off and remaining quiet and out of sight. Make sure your cell phone is silenced, but do not turn it off.
    - DEFEND. When you are unable to put distance between yourself and the threat, be prepared to protect yourself. Commit to your actions, be aggressive and do not fight fairly. Do whatever it takes to survive.
- For emergencies on campus, UCF will utilize the UCF Alert system. All UCF students, faculty and staff are automatically enrolled to receive these email and text alerts, however, it's a good idea to frequently ensure your contact information is up to date.

Financial Aid Accountability

All instructors/faculty are required to document students' academic activity at the beginning of each course. In order to document that you began this course, please complete this activity by the end of the first week of classes or as soon as possible after adding the course. Failure to do so may result in a delay in the disbursement of your financial aid.
