

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

Ph.D. Program Handbook

2015

Introduction and Welcome

Welcome to the Ph.D. program in Security Studies in the Department of Political Science at the University of Central Florida. The department is pleased and honored to offer an advanced graduate program with an emphasis in an area of extreme relevance not just for the United States, but the global community. Only few Ph.D. programs in the country offer a degree with an emphasis on national and international security. The program aims to prepare students for careers in the academic world, but also for positions with governmental and private sector agencies that specialize on security issues.

The Department of Political Science offers a rigorous program for students with a Master's program pursuing a Ph.D. degree. It includes rigorous training for students interested in national security, international affairs, world politics, and transnational problems. The program emphasizes considerable flexibility in terms of the theoretical diversity and intellectual breadth that characterizes security studies. Students will be confronted with traditional theoretical approaches to international security such as realism and traditional topics such as the causes of war, terrorism, and political violence, but they will also be trained in the use of more recent theories such as social constructivism, feminism, and critical theory, and in "new" security issues such as the environment, genocide, poverty and inequality, economic security, and the global spread of epidemics such as AIDS. International security scholars today offer a broad range of theoretical approaches to a variety of traditional and non-traditional issues, and the program is designed to reflect this diversity in its course offerings. That diversity is also reflected in its broad theoretical and methodological eclecticism; students will be trained in both quantitative and qualitative methods, for instance, as appropriate to their chosen emphasis within security studies. The program is designed to ensure that students graduate with a full range of theoretical tools and methodological skills.

As a Ph.D. student, you will learn from the existing research conducted by others, but you will also contribute to the existing scholarship by pursuing your own research. The departmental graduate coordinator, your dissertation advisor, the department chair, and other offices at UCF will help you in this endeavor. As a student, you will be responsible for being an active member of the department, acting according to professional standards and ethics, and for actively pursuing and taking charge of your graduate education. You will be expected to do well in the courses you take, but also to take full advantage of professional development opportunities offered by the department. You will have to make sure that you are on track with the program requirements. If you encounter any problems, do not hesitate to bring these to the attention of the graduate coordinator, dissertation advisor, or department chair – they are always available to help you.

Again, welcome to the Ph.D. program in Security Studies,

Dr. Kerstin Hamann
Professor & Chair

I. Mission Statement

The Political Science Department at the University of Central Florida offers a Ph.D. in Security Studies that is designed to prepare graduates for careers in government, non-profit, and academic settings. To that end, it provides advanced graduate students with quantitative and qualitative research methods skills, exposure to current issues in domestic and international security, as well as electives inside and outside of the department that allow the students to pursue their interest in a specialized area within the field of security studies.

III. Advising and Mentoring

Advising and mentoring are two very important elements in a graduate student's career, and it is essential that appropriate advising, supervision, and mentoring be provided to students as soon as they begin the program. PhD students typically receive guidance from two advisors with distinct roles. The program advisor provides guidance on overall academic requirements, and program and university policies and procedures, while the PhD thesis advisor serves more as a mentor providing guidance on research, professional guidance and socialization, and other areas of academic and professional interest.

The PhD Program Advisor and Dissertation Chair

The departmental PhD Program Director serves as the program advisor for all graduate students during their first year in the program, until the formation of their Pre-dissertation Advisory Committee. The program advisor helps students identify which courses to enroll in during their first semesters, advises them on their program of study, and is responsible for all program-related matters. The program advisor is the only one who can authorize course substitutions or any other exceptions to the program of study as specified in the graduate catalog. The program advisor needs to be consulted prior to students planning their comprehensive exams and needs to sign all forms relating to completion of the program, such as the Intent to Graduate form. The program advisor needs to be consulted to ensure that the student progresses appropriately through the program of study.

The pre-dissertation and dissertation chairs supervise the student's progress towards completion of the PhD dissertation, discusses the research necessary to complete the dissertation, and may also be involved in mentoring the student's professional development, for example through attendance at professional conferences. In many ways, the thesis chair serves as the intellectual mentor to the student. Students must select a thesis chair from the departmental faculty; the PhD Program Director can assist them in identifying an appropriate thesis chair if the student so chooses. Generally, dissertation chairs have substantive expertise in the area that the student will write the thesis on. It is a good idea to think about potential dissertation topics and chairs during their first year in the program.

In some circumstances, the selected dissertation chair may find it impossible to see the student through to completion of the dissertation. In that case, the student, with the help of the PhD Program Director, may select a different dissertation chair.

IV. Degree Requirements

The Ph.D. program admits students who have completed a Master's degree in Political Science, International Studies, or a related field, ensuring that admitted students will have a solid grounding in mainstream political science or international relations and are well prepared to take on the more specialized coursework and research required for a Ph.D. in Security Studies. Students admitted to the program complete 62 hours of course work beyond the Master's degree, including dissertation research, to obtain a Ph.D. in Security Studies.

The course work consists of 15 hours of required core classes on issues and theories of security studies as well as advanced quantitative and qualitative research methods; 15 hours of restricted electives in courses on security; 12 hours of unrestricted electives, which can include up to 6 hours of internship credit; and a minimum of 18 hours of dissertation research. In addition, students are required to complete two 1-credit hour professional development courses that will prepare them for a career in academic and non-academic environments, including questions of research ethics in the field, grant proposal preparation, and teaching preparedness. Student progress is assessed through annual reviews, an oral qualifying exam at the end of the first year, a written candidacy exam prior to enrollment into dissertation hours, an oral defense of the dissertation proposal, and an oral defense of the dissertation.

A. Admissions Requirements

The admission requirements for the proposed degree are consistent with most Ph.D. programs. Admissions will only be made for students starting in the fall semester. Students must have an earned Master's degree or its equivalent in Political Science, International Politics or International Relations, or related discipline with at least 30 hours of Master's level work (including both course work and thesis hours). The Graduate Program Director will evaluate the suitability and applicability of MA degrees in other disciplines for admission purposes. Students must have:

- A minimum cumulative GPA of 3.5 for all Master's level work completed;
- A competitive score on each of the quantitative and verbal sections of the Graduate Record Examination taken within three years prior to admission to the program;
- Three letters of reference that evaluate the applicant's academic performance and their suitability and potential for undertaking doctoral study, at least one of which must be written by a faculty member at the institution where the master's degree was earned, preferably the thesis advisor for those applicants who wrote a master's thesis;
- A personal statement of 200-300 words describing the applicant's academic and professional experience and goals;
- A writing sample of the applicant's work that is at least 2500 words long and demonstrates ability to complete graduate-level research;
- International applicants whose first language is not English are required to submit results of the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or other equivalent test approved by the Graduate College, unless they hold a degree from a U.S. accredited institution. The TOEFL is strongly preferred. The minimum TOEFL score for full admissions consideration is 90 on the Internet-based test (IBT), 232 on the computer-based test, or 575 on the paper-based test. The minimum IELTS score is 7.0. Applicants should plan to take the appropriate test no later than December to ensure consideration of their applications by the January 1 deadline.

B. Graduation Requirements

The Ph.D. degree consists of 62 hours beyond the Master's degree. Graduation requirements are as follows:

- Fifteen hours of required core course work;
- An oral Qualifying Exam (based on core course work);
- Completion of two required professional development seminars;
- 15 hours of restricted electives;
- 12 hours of unrestricted electives;
- A written Candidacy Exam;
- Competency in one modern language (four semesters college-level);
- A Dissertation Proposal Hearing;
- 18 hours of Dissertation work;
- Participation in mentoring, advising, and professional development opportunities, and Completion and Defense of Dissertation

C. Annual Academic Review of Doctoral Students

Each student's academic progress is evaluated annually by the department's Doctoral Program Committee, which receives input from the student's faculty advisor, faculty with whom the student has taken courses, and, once the student is enrolled in dissertation hours, the student's dissertation advisor. The review will be conducted toward the end of the spring semester, thereby permitting appropriate academic planning for the following academic year. The Doctoral Program Committee will communicate the annual academic evaluation to the student in writing. The review will include:

1. Review of the student's academic record including
 - a) checking the overall grade point average;
 - b) addressing any incomplete and/or withdrawn courses;
 - c) monitoring overall progress toward completing the coursework phase of the program.
2. Checking on progress in completing or preparing for the candidacy exam.
3. Planning for a timely defense of the dissertation research proposal or prospectus.
4. Monitoring adequate progress in research including timeliness of degree completion.
5. Assessing participation in those events and activities pertinent to the socialization and professional development of the student.
6. The Oral Qualifying Exam, given at the end of the first year (see below) will be a part of each student's first annual academic review.

D. Program of Study

After formation of the Pre-dissertation Advisory Committee the chair of the committee serves as the student's faculty advisor, until the formation of the Dissertation Advisory Committee. After formation of the Pre-dissertation Advisory Committee the student and advisor must design a Program of Study that will serve as an individualized guide through the program. The Program of Study includes the student's primary area of interest, skill levels attained, required elective preferences, and long-range goals. Faculty will use student plans of study to determine future curriculum needs for courses and research resources. The Program of Study will be used to make suggestions and recommendations to facilitate the socialization and professional development of new doctoral students in the program.

i. Required Core Courses and Professional Development (17 hours)

These core courses (3 credit hours each), required of all doctoral students, introduce advanced training in security studies, international politics, and research methods. Along with the student's masters-level training, they provide the research and methodological skills necessary to pursue careers suited to doctoral-level education in academia and in the private and public sectors. The core courses are:

INR 7687 Theoretical Approaches to Security Studies
INR 7139 Issues in Domestic Security
INR 7337 Issues in International Security
POS 7745 Advanced Quantitative Methods in Political Research
POS 7707 Advanced Qualitative Methods in Political Research

In addition to the substantive required core courses, doctoral students are required to take the following two 1-credit hour courses, which emphasize professional development within and socialization into the field:

POS 7930 Professional Development in Security Studies I
POS 7267 Professional Development in Security Studies II

ii. Oral Qualifying Examination

The oral qualifying examination is given at the end of the semester in which core course work is completed. It will examine students on theoretical, epistemological, and methodological literature and issues from the five required core courses, although the scope of the examination is not limited to topics covered in the seminars. The exam is administered by the student's Pre-dissertation Advisory Committee. The oral qualifying examination evaluates students' preparation in subjects that are considered to be an essential foundation for their continued doctoral study and research in the program. Any student failing the examination must repeat the examination prior to the start of the next fall semester. A second failed attempt will result in dismissal from the program. The oral qualifying exam will also serve as part of the student's annual academic review for the first year of study.

iii. Restricted Electives (15 hours)

All students in the doctoral program must complete a minimum of 15 hours of course work in approved restricted elective graduate seminars. The choice of specific courses will be based on the research interests of students and made in conjunction with their faculty advisor. In this way, students achieve two distinct but related goals: a broad competence in the variety of methodological, theoretical, and substantive approaches to security studies and advanced proficiency in the areas that are most germane to their research interests. Approved restricted electives include:

- CPO 6038 Political Development (3 credit hours)
- CPO 6058 Revolution and Political Violence (3 credit hours)
- INR 6007 Seminar in International Politics (3 credit hours)
- INR 6067 Human Rights Policy (3 credit hours)
- INR 6071 Seminar in Weapons of Mass Destruction (3 credit hours)
- INR 6136 Seminar in American Security Policy (3 credit hours)
- INR 6108 Seminar in American Foreign Policy (3 credit hours)
- INR 6228 International Politics of the Caspian Sea Region (3 credit hours)
- INR 6275 International Politics of the Middle East (3 credit hours)
- INR 6607 International Relations Theory (3 credit hours)
- INR 6346 Politics of International Terrorism (3 credit hours)
- INR 6065 Seminar on War (3 credit hours)
- INR 6365 Seminar on Intelligence (3 credit hours)
- INR 6366 The Intelligence Community
- INR 6062 Peace Studies (3 credit hours)
- INR 6356 Environmental Security (3 credit hours)
- INR 6096 International Drug Policy (3 credit hours)
- INR 6726 Political Behavior in International Conflict (3 credit hours)

iv. Unrestricted Electives (12 hours)

The unrestricted electives provide students with an opportunity to further expand their doctoral training beyond the program's core courses and the restricted electives. Unrestricted electives may include regularly scheduled graduate courses in political science, graduate-level courses in programs outside the department, independent study courses, doctoral research courses with a highly focused student/faculty research component, and internships that enable students to gain valuable experience in a non-academic setting. Unrestricted electives may be taken at any point in the student's program of study; however, no more than a total of twelve hours of graduate course work can be from outside of the department, dissertation research, independent study, or internship combined; in addition, no more than a total of six hours can be from either independent study or internship. Students with suitable academic backgrounds may work in areas such as cyber security or science and technology taking courses in relevant departments. A student's faculty advisor and the department's Graduate Program Director must approve all graduate courses taken outside of the department as well as any internships.

The following courses have been approved to be taken outside the Political Science Department:

AMH 5515 Colloquium in U.S. Diplomatic History
ASH 5485 U.S.-China Relations
ASH 5227 The Arab-Israeli Conflict
CCJ 6675 Human Rights and Criminal Justice
CCJ 6027 Criminal Justice Responses to Terrorism
CCJ 6067 Perspectives on Genocide
CCJ 6485 Issues in Justice Policy
LAH 5713 Colloquium in U.S.-Latin American Relations
PAD 6399 Foundations of Emergency Management and Homeland Security

v. Written Candidacy Exams

Each student will take two exams on separate days. The first exam will be in research methods. The content of this exam will be uniform for each matriculating class of students. The second exam will be a special field in Security Studies, devised by the student in consultation with his or her Dissertation Advisory Committee. The special field may be geographic or thematic in focus, reflecting the research interests of the student. Both examinations will be used to determine the student's knowledge of theory, methods, and past and present research in their chosen areas. Students failing the comprehensive examination may retake the exam one time. If the exam is failed a second time, the student will be dismissed from the program.

A student must notify the Graduate Program Director in writing of their intent to take candidacy exams at least one month before the date fixed for examination. The exam must be successfully completed prior to enrollment in dissertation hours.

vi. Modern Language Requirement

Prior to enrollment in dissertation hours, students are required to demonstrate proficiency in one modern language (other than English). The requirement is two years (four semesters) college-level of a single modern language, which should normally be in an area relevant to the student's research area of interest. Students may meet the requirement by providing evidence of four semesters of enrollment or by passing a university administered equivalent proficiency examination.

vii. Dissertation Advisory Committee

It is the responsibility of the student to secure qualified members of their dissertation committee. The dissertation committee consists of a minimum of four members who are approved members of the Graduate Faculty or Graduate Faculty Scholars. At least three members must be Graduate Faculty, one of whom must serve as the chair of the committee. One member must be from either outside the student's department at UCF or outside the university. Graduate Faculty members must form the majority of any given committee. A dissertation committee must be formed prior to enrollment into dissertation hours.

viii. Dissertation Proposal Hearing

The purpose of the dissertation proposal hearing is to explain the subject under investigation, place it within the existing scholarly literature, and present the planned approach for writing the dissertation. The proposal hearing takes place in the first semester a student is enrolled into dissertation hours; therefore, students may not schedule a proposal hearing with their dissertation committee until they have completed all coursework and exams in their program of study. Students work with their dissertation committee to develop and refine the proposal. Students will present the dissertation proposal in a seminar open to the university community. Immediately after this defense, the student's Dissertation Committee will meet to decide whether the student passed the proposal hearing. A student who passes the proposal hearing then begins the actual research and writing of the doctoral dissertation.

ix. Dissertation (minimum 18 hours)

The dissertation is the culmination of the course work that comprises this research-based degree. It must make a significant theoretical, historical, intellectual, practical, creative, or research contribution to the student's area within the discipline. The dissertation will be completed through a minimum of 18 hours of dissertation credit, which students will use to accomplish original research. Students must maintain enrollment in dissertation hours until the degree is awarded. Students must successfully defend their completed dissertation in an oral examination, which takes place in an open seminar. Defense dates for the completed dissertation should be set during the first week of the semester in which the defense will take place. This date must be approved by both the student's advisory committee and the Graduate Program Director. Each chapter of the dissertation should be distributed to committee members in a timely fashion. The full dissertation manuscript must be submitted to all committee members at least thirty days before the scheduled defense. The final dissertation must be approved by a majority of the committee. Further approval is required from the Deans of the College of Sciences and of the College of Graduate Studies before final acceptance of the dissertation in fulfilling degree requirements.

x. Participation in additional mentoring, advising, and professional development processes and events.

To ensure that students are adequately advised and socialized as professionals to enter the workforce in academic and non-academic settings, students are expected to participate fully in all processes and events the department will offer to this end. Upon admission to the program, each student will be assigned a faculty advisor to provide guidance about UCF, the department, and the program in conjunction with the Graduate Program Director. All newly admitted students are required to attend an orientation session, led by the Graduate Program Director, prior to the beginning of their first semester. In addition, students will be required to participate in the programs for GTAs offered by the UCF Faculty Center for Teaching and Learning and the College of Sciences as well as UCF's Graduate College, including the mandatory Academic Integrity Training. New graduate students will also meet during the start of their first semester with an assigned faculty advisor to develop an individually-tailored Program of Study. Students are expected to participate fully in all graduate workshops offered or organized by the department, attend brown bag research presentations, job talks, dissertation proposal hearings, dissertation defenses by their peers, and attend lectures organized by other UCF units (e.g. Office of Global Perspectives, Lou Frey Institute) when the topics are relevant to their field of study. Students are also expected to present their research at professional conferences in the discipline. Though participation in these activities is not graded, it will be included in the annual academic review for each student.

xi. Typical course of study for all majors, concentrations, or areas of emphasis within the program

A typical sequence for full-time students enrolled in our PhD program is as follows:

Year 1 (19 hours)

Fall:

INR 7687 Theoretical Approaches to Security Studies (3)
POS 7707 Advanced Qualitative Methods of Political Research (3)
POS 7745 Advanced Quantitative Methods of Political Research (3)

Spring:

INR 7139 Issues in Domestic Security (3)
INR 7337 Issues in International Security (3)
POS 7930 Professional Development in Security Studies I (1)
Restricted Elective (3)

xii. Short descriptions of each required or elective course

Required Core Courses (all courses are 3 credit hours unless indicated otherwise)

INR 7687 Theoretical Approaches to Security Studies

Survey of realist, liberal, constructivist, critical and other theories of international security.

INR 7139 Issues in Domestic Security

Examination of national issues such as domestic terrorism, with a particular emphasis on challenges arising at the state level.

INR 7337 Issues in International Security

Overview of international issues such as terrorism, genocide, nuclear proliferation, war, the spread of infectious diseases, fragile and failing states, transnational organized crime, and gender.

POS 7745 Advanced Quantitative Methods in Political Research

Survey of advanced quantitative methods used in political science research, including multiple and logistical regression models.

POS 7707 Advanced Qualitative Methods in Political Research

Survey of advanced qualitative methods employed in political science research, including the use of case studies, the logic of comparison, and the use of archival and interview-based research.

POS 7930 Professional Development in Security Studies I

Prepare students for teaching, submission of articles to peer-reviewed journals, grant writing, and other questions related to an academic career.

POS 7267 Professional Development in Security Studies II

Addresses ethics in political science, specifically from a security studies perspective.

Elective Courses (all courses are 3 credit hours; the elective courses will also supplement the existing M.A. program as elective courses)

POS 6743 Geographic Tools for Political Science Research

Provides an introduction to theoretical assumptions, analytical possibilities and application of geographic tools of analysis for political science research.

CPO 6058 Revolution and Political Violence

Seminar addresses theory and analytical models of political revolutions and insurgencies with cases, especially Third World.

INR 6007 Seminar in International Politics

Introduces the student to the advances in international relations theory and research through a broad sampling of approaches and methods.

INR 6071 Seminar in Weapons of Mass Destruction

Examination of the impact and proliferation of Weapons of Mass Destruction, and efforts at control and regulation.

INR 6108 Seminar in American Foreign Policy

Domestic and international factors influencing the development of selected foreign policy issues.

INR 6136 Seminar in American Security Policy

Examination of domestic and international factors influencing the development of selected American security policy issues.

INR 6228 International Politics of the Caspian Sea States

A comprehensive analysis of the political issues of the Caspian region.

INR 6275 International Politics of the Middle East

Examination of domestic and international factors influencing the development of selected American security policy issues.

INR 6607 International Relations Theory

A survey of primary theoretical approaches to understanding and explaining international relations.

INR 6346 Politics of International Terrorism

An analysis of the causes of and political responses to the incidence of domestic and international terrorism. Emphasis on political science approaches to the study of past, current, and future developments in domestic and international terrorism.

INR 6065 Seminar on War

Examination of theories and empirical evidence locating the causes of war at the systemic, state and individual levels of analysis.

INR 6365 Seminar on Intelligence

Examination of the organization and functions of the intelligence community, its interaction with national security policymakers, and the challenges it faces in defining its future role.

INR 6062 Peace Studies

Examination of the ways in which human beings may manage conflict, fostering justice and creative development. Surveys both international and domestic conflicts, outlining theories of peace and utilizing various case studies.

The course will analyze U.S.-Latin American relations from an historical perspective. It will be presented through readings and discussion of selected materials.

PAD 6399 Foundations of Emergency Management and Homeland Security (3 credit hours)

Analyzes the policy and organizational design issues confronting managers of emergency management and homeland security programs by examining natural and manmade threats, analysis of the network of actors - national, state, local, and private - and by assessing policies, plans and procedures at governmental and community levels.

V. General Policies

A. Student Rights and Responsibilities

The Golden Rule is provided to answer any questions a student may have about the university rules and regulations, as well as outlines a student's rights and responsibilities. The Golden Rule can be found online at <http://www.goldenrule.sdes.ucf.edu/>. In addition, graduate students can find additional information about their responsibilities in the Graduate Catalog, found online at <http://www.graduate.ucf.edu/CurrentGradCatalog/> in the section marked Policies > General Policies. For more information about college and university graduate policies, see also: Political Science Program Website:

<http://www.cas.ucf.edu/politicalscience/main.php?URL=graduate>.

College of Sciences Graduate Website:

<http://www.cos.ucf.edu/cosgraduate/policies.html>

UCF Graduate Studies Website:

<http://www.graduate.ucf.edu/currentGradCatalog/>

B. Satisfactory Academic Performance

Satisfactory performance involves maintaining the standards of academic progress and professional integrity expected in a particular discipline or program. Failure to maintain these standards may result in termination of the student from the program. If the student is in violation of any of the rules of professional integrity, the Graduate Committee can make a recommendation to the College of Sciences to revert the student to non-degree status. The university requires that students must maintain a graduate status GPA of at least 3.0 or higher in order to maintain graduate student status, receive financial assistance, and qualify for graduation. The graduate status GPA is the cumulative GPA of graduate courses taken since admission to the degree program. This graduation requirement for a minimum 3.0 GPA in all graduate courses completed since admission into the graduate program cannot be waived. The policy can be found at <http://www.graduate.ucf.edu/currentGradCatalog/content/Policies/> > General Policies > Academic Progress and Performance. Students are also required to maintain a 3.00 GPA in all coursework included in the program of study. Be aware that a B- (2.75) does negatively impact a GPA. While students are allowed to have six hours of C (2.00) grades or lower (including U and I) in their program of study, this is the limit. Grades of D+ and lower will count against the graduate GPA and those courses cannot be used toward completion of the degree requirements.

A program or graduate status GPA below 3.00 at the end of any semester will result in a student being placed on probation. The student is given the next nine hours of their program coursework to improve their GPA to 3.00 or better. While in this status, a student is eligible for tuition support and employment in a graduate position; however, the program may discontinue either of these until the student resolves their status. Exceeding 6 hours of C or lower grades or a program GPA or 2.00 or lower may result in dismissal from the program. The program of study must include at least 72 credit hours of post-baccalaureate, minimum 42 credits of graduate course work and at least half of the credits in the program of study must be at the 6000 or 7000-level. For a full description of course requirements for a doctoral program refer to the section on Course Requirements in the most current graduate catalog at <http://www.graduate.ucf.edu/CurrentGradCatalog/content/Policies/> > Doctoral Program Policies > Course Requirements.

C. Satisfactory Academic Progress

For completion of the degree, courses older than seven years cannot be applied toward a graduate program of study. In order to allow courses older than seven to be applied toward the program of study, the student must file a petition.

D. Full Time and Continuous Enrollment

Full-time graduate status is nine (9) hours during the fall and Spring Semesters and six (6) hours during the summer semesters, until regular program course work is completed. Students who have completed all of their course requirements and are enrolled into three hours of thesis are considered full-time for fellowship, employment and tuition waiver purposes. Once a student has begun work on their thesis, he or she must be continuously enrolled in thesis course work. Requirements that need to be met for federal loan eligibility override graduate full-time requirements. A student may be held to other enrollment requirements, as defined by financial awards, veteran status, employment, or other outside agencies. For further information, refer to the section on Full-time Enrollment at the UCF Graduate Catalog:

<http://www.graduate.ucf.edu/CurrentGradCatalog/> > General Policies > Full- time Enrollment Requirements

E. Seven-Year Rule

The student has seven years from the date of admission (prerequisite, articulation, and foundation courses are exempt) to the doctoral program to complete the degree. For more details, refer to the section on Time Limitation for Degree Completion in the most current catalog at <http://www.graduatemanager.ucf.edu/content/Policies.aspx> > Policies > Doctoral Program Policies > Time Limitation and Continuous Enrollment.

F. Transfer Coursework

All transfer coursework must be at the graduate level, have a grade of B- or better, and must be approved by the PhD Program Director. Transfer coursework is limited to 9 hours. For more details transfer coursework, refer to the section on Transfer of Credit in the most current catalog at <http://www.graduatemanager.ucf.edu/content/Policies.aspx> > Policies > Doctoral Program Policies > Course Requirements > Transfer of Credits.

G. Incomplete Grades

An Incomplete grade may be assigned when a student is unable to complete a course due to extenuating circumstances and when all requirements can clearly be completed within a reasonable time. For more details, refer to the section on Incomplete Grades in the most current catalog at <http://www.graduate.ucf.edu/currentGradCatalog/> > Policies > General Graduate Policies > Academic Progress and Performance > Incomplete Grades.

Incomplete grades are not counted as satisfactorily completed courses and are not recognized as such by Graduate Studies for fellowship purposes nor by Financial Aid. Students on financial assistance must check with the Financial Aid office to see if the receipt of an incomplete grade will affect their financial award.

H. Withdrawal Policy

If a student decides to withdraw from a course, they must do so by the semester's withdrawal deadline. In doing so, the student is still liable for tuition and fees for the course.

http://www.graduatecatalog.ucf.edu/content/Registration.aspx#Withdrawal_Policy > Current Students/Registration > Withdrawal Policy

For a semester's withdrawal deadline, refer to the Academic Calendar:

http://www.ucf.edu/info/acad_calendar.php

I. Petitions and Grievances

It is the student's responsibility to be informed of graduate policies and procedures; however, should a student wish to request an exception to a university or program policy, he or she must file a petition that outlines the nature of their request. Normally, petitions are presented to the graduate program's coordinator and/or committee, the college's Director of Graduate Services and the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies, and the Graduate Council for consideration. Should a student wish to file a grievance, he or she should first review UCF's Golden Rule (<http://www.goldenrule.sdes.ucf.edu/>) and the Academic Grievance Procedures in the Graduate Catalog

(http://www.graduatecatalog.ucf.edu/content/policies.aspx?id=5700#Academic_Grievance_Procedure)

VI. Professional Development

Students are encouraged, but not required, to submit their research to political science conferences and to peer-reviewed journals. Students' academic advisors will alert students who have produced particularly outstanding research in their courses or on their thesis to existing opportunities. Students are also encouraged to join the American Political Science Association or International Studies Association and join the subfield sections relevant to their research, which will familiarize them with ongoing trends and discussions in the discipline. Furthermore, students are encouraged to engage in professional development opportunities by writing book reviews for journals. The Department offers a Research Colloquium series where faculty members present ongoing research. All graduate students are encouraged to attend these presentations and discussions. The schedule is available from the Departmental Program Assistant.

A. Travel Support

The Division of Graduate Studies offers a Graduate Travel Award that provides funding for master's, specialist, and doctoral students to deliver a research paper or comparable creative activity at a profession meeting. Students must be the primary author and presenter. www.graduate.ucf.edu > Current Students > Financial Matters

Graduate Student Travel Funding is available to pay transportation expenses for MA and PhD students who are delivering a research paper or comparable creative activity at a professional meeting. Contact the Student Government Association at 407/823-5648 for more information.

B. Instructor Training and Development

The Faculty Center for Teaching & Learning (FCTL) promotes excellence at all levels of teaching at the University of Central Florida. To that end, they offer several programs for the professional development of Graduate Teaching Assistants at UCF. GTA Training (mandatory for employment as a GTA) provides information and resources for students who will be instructors in a two-day workshop. The seminars cover a variety of topics, including course development, learning theories, lecturing, and academic freedom. Those interested in additional training can also attend an optional training session that normally follows the mandatory training.

i. GTA Teaching Certificate

This certificate program (12-weeks for domestic students, 16-weeks for international students) consists of group and individualized instruction by Faculty Center staff and experienced UCF professors. Textbooks and materials are provided, and a stipend is offered to current UCF students who complete the certificate. International students are provided the same training as well as information regarding language immersion and tricks and cultural awareness as a way of knowing what to expect from American students. For more information about GTA Training: <http://www.fctl.ucf.edu/> > Events > GTA Programs or call 407/823-3544.

iii. Career Services and Experiential Learning

<http://www.crc.ucf.edu/home/>

Graduate career development issues are unique and include evaluating academic and nonacademic career choices, discussing graduate school effect on career choices, as well as learning, evaluating, and refining networking and interviewing skills. Whatever your needs, the offices of Career Services and Experiential Learning offer services and resources to aid in the career exploration and job search of Master and Doctoral students in every academic discipline.

Iii. Seminar Series

Each semester, GSA offers seminars geared toward academic and professional development.
Graduate Student Association <http://www.gsa.graduate.ucf.edu/>

Iii. Graduate Research Forum

Sponsored by the Division of Graduate Studies, the Research Forum is an opportunity for students to showcase their research and creative projects and to receive valuable feedback from faculty judges. Awards for best poster and best oral presentation in each category will be given and all participants will receive recognition.

Iv. Graduate Excellence Awards

College and University Awards

Each year, students can submit a portfolio for nomination of College and University level awards of excellence. These are intended to showcase student excellence in academic achievement, teaching, research, leadership, and community service. These awards include the following:

Award for Excellence by a Graduate Teaching Assistant

For students who provide teaching support and assistance under the direction of a lead teacher. This award focuses on the extent and quality of the assistance provided by the student to the lead instructor and the students in the class. (Not intended for students who are instructor of record).

Award for Excellence in Graduate Student Teaching

For students who serve as instructors of record and have independent classroom responsibilities. The focus of this award is on the quality of the student's teaching and the academic contributions of those activities.

VII. Financial Support

Depending on available funding, we offer several Graduate Teaching Assistantships to students in the PhD program. Graduate Teaching Assistants are generally expected to support faculty members in a variety of ways in their teaching efforts and/or teach courses assigned by the Chair of the Department. Assignments may vary by semester. Starting in their second year, Ph.D. students may also be assigned to teach their own course as instructor of record. Most GTAs are funded by university tuition waivers and departmental funds. Occasionally, additional students are funded or partially funded by external grants, and the student on these lines will primarily work with the faculty member holding the grant.

In order to ensure that support is received on time, applicants must apply by the priority deadline and to stay in close contact with the department's Administrative Assistant for timely completion of all necessary paperwork. Students are also encouraged to register early for classes in time to process tuition waivers. Support from the department will cover no more than the minimum hours required for the students to complete their degree; if the student takes additional hours, no support will be provided for these additional hours.

Students are strongly encouraged to apply to fellowships available from the university as well as from outside sources for financial support (see <http://www.graduate.ucf.edu/currentGradCatalog/content/Financial/index.cfm#Graduate%20Fellowships> and <http://www.cos.ucf.edu/cosgraduate/awardsfunding.htm> for further information).

International Students

Several types of employment are available to international students, including on-campus employment. For more information about the types of employment available to international students, and the requirements and restrictions based in visa-type, please see the International Services Center's website: <http://www.intl.ucf.edu/> > Current Students > Employment

Assistantships and Tuition Waivers

For complete information about university assistantship and tuition waivers, please see the UCF Graduate Catalogue: <http://www.graduate.ucf.edu/currentGradCatalog/> > Financial Information

To be employed and to maintain employment in a graduate position, the student must be enrolled full time and meet all of the training requirements and/or conditions of employment. To be awarded and continue receipt of a tuition waiver, the student must be enrolled full time and either employed in a graduate position (GTA, GRA, GA), receiving a University fellowship, or (if employed off-campus) employed in a position where payment is processed through Graduate Studies. Masters students can be offered tuition support for a maximum of four semesters excluding summer semesters.

If the student is hired in the position of Graduate Teaching Associate, Assistant or Graders, there are training requirements that must be met in order for the contract to be processed. Associates and Assistants must complete a minimum two-day training and an online GTA Policies and Procedures Module. Associates must also have completed at least 18 hours of graduate courses in the discipline they will be teaching. Students who are employed as Graders are required to complete the online legal module. These services are offered by the Faculty Center for Teaching and Learning (FCTL) and more information can be found at the following website: <http://www.fctl.ucf.edu> > Events > GTA Programs. More information about the requirements is available at <http://www.graduatestudies.ucf.edu/pagegen/index.cfm?PageID=19>.

International students who will be hired in GTA positions must be proficient at speaking English. This is determined by successfully passing the SPEAK test with a score of 55 or better. This test (also known as the Oral Proficiency Exam) is administered during the GTA orientation by the Center for Multicultural and Multilingual Services (CMMS). For international student to register for or inquire about the SPEAK examination, please contact Myrna Creasman at CMMS: (407) 823 5515

GTA Performance Appraisal

At the completion of each semester the student is employed as a GTA, the student's performance will be evaluated by the faculty advisor. These assessments will be used to review strengths and weaknesses in the student's performance in preparation for future employment.

VIII. Forms and Procedures

Included below is information about several forms that will be useful to the student while they are completing their coursework. In addition to websites where the forms can be found, procedures for filing each of these forms are also outlined. Many of these forms can be found on the following websites:

College of Graduate Studies Website: <http://www.admin.graduate.ucf.edu/formsnfiles/>

College of Sciences, Graduate Services: <http://www.cos.ucf.edu/cosgraduate/commonforms.htm>

Transfer Request Form

In order for transfer courses to be requested for use in a UCF degree, the official transcripts from the institution where the courses were taken must be sent to UCF's Division of Graduate Studies. In addition to the form, supporting documentation from the program must include a memo that gives approval for courses to be transferred and where credit should be applied in Program of Study.

Traveling Scholar Form

If a student would like to request permission to enroll in a graduate course at another institution, this form must be submitted to the College of Sciences Director of Graduate Services prior to the start of classes for the semester of enrollment. Once the coursework is completed, official transcripts from the institution where the courses were taken must be sent to UCF's Division of Graduate Studies.

Time Conflict (College Form)

If a registration attempt results in a time conflict between two courses, in order for the student to be registered, this form must be completed. This form accompanies the override of the course they are into which they are unable to register. This form is submitted to the College of Sciences Director of Graduate Services for approval and course enrollment.

Thesis Proposal Approval Form (Departmental Form)

During their first semester of thesis hours, students must complete a thesis proposal and secure approval by all thesis committee members. The form is available from the Program Assistant in the department.

Thesis Committee Approval Form (College Form)

Thesis committees must be in place and approved by the PhD Program Director, the Department Chair/Director, and Graduate Studies prior to a student's enrollment into Dissertation hours.

Form

Requests for exceptions to college or university policies are made by petition. The petition process includes both student and program required documentation prior to its receipt in the College of Sciences Graduate Office

In addition to the Graduate Petition Form, the student must supply their program with a clear statement of what exactly is being requested, why it is being petitioned and rationale for support. If at any point the petition is denied, the student is given the option of having the petition considered at the next level; however, the Graduate Council provides the final decision regarding petitions. Denials at any level are accompanied with a written explanation.
