Thank you for your interest in UCF’s Advertising/Public Relations program. We hope you find the following information, grouped in alphabetical order by broad category, will answer all your questions.

Admission and Application Process

Ad/PR is a restricted access major. That means you have to apply to the program to major in it. Applicants must have 45 hours earned by the deadline date to apply. Courses you must complete before being accepted are ADV 3008 (Principles of Advertising), and PUR 4000 (Introduction to Public Relations). You must earn a “C” or better in these courses in order to satisfy admission requirements.

Ad/PR is a very popular major and more students want to major in it than we can get through the program. Most of our classes are very small, limited to 20 students. Forty students are admitted each semester and the dominant criteria to be admitted is overall grade point average, or GPA. The applications are lined up from highest GPA to lowest, a line is drawn below the 70th applicant, and those above the line are invited to write a proctored essay in our computer labs. The essays are evaluated and the top 40 are admitted.

The GPA cut-off changes every semester based on the applicant pool, but it does tend to hover around a 3.3. In recent years the lowest GPA has been a 3.0 and the highest has been a 4.0. The GPA we consider is your cumulative GPA, and it includes your grades from all colleges or universities you’ve attended. There is a GPA calculator on UCF’s Web site that you may find helpful.

Application Process Deadlines

We accept applications three times a year: Feb. 1 for Summer semester admission, June 1 for Fall semester admission, and October 1 for Spring semester admission. The application is available online in the Undergraduate section, in the Ad/PR major area of the School’s Web site:

http://communication.cos.ucf.edu/undergraduate/adpr_admission.php

You need to apply every semester as your application does not remain in our file after each deadline. You are notified of your status (accepted or denied) by UCF Knights email about two weeks after the deadline.

You should apply every semester—including for Summer even if you don’t plan on taking classes—no matter what your GPA is because predicting the GPA cut-off is impossible. You can apply as many times as you want, but if you have 80 hours completed, applied two or more times, and have not been accepted, we recommend you see an advisor in NASSC and consider choosing another major so you can graduate on time. (See Introductory Classes and Internships, below.) A faculty member is happy to meet with you to discuss options that will lead to a job in the field.

Advising

Before being accepted into the major, you can be advised by Sierra Cater, the School of Communication adviser for Ad/PR pending students. Email: Sierra.Cater@ucf.edu. Phone: 407-823-2681. Office: NSC 143.

When you are admitted to the Advertising/Public Relations major, you will be assigned a faculty member as your official adviser. This faculty member can advise you on your courses and your compliance with School and University graduation requirements. It is recommended you meet with your adviser every semester, preferably before registration. Print an audit the day you are meeting with your adviser and bring it with you. Your faculty adviser can only advise you about the Ad/PR major and not about your minors or any other department. See COSAS section below for more information.

COSAS

College of Sciences Academic Services (COSAS) is located in the College of Sciences Building (behind the Student Union), Room 250. COSAS helps students with matters concerning college and university requirements, what classes transfer from community college, policies, and procedures. You can walk-in or make an appointment for advising and special problems. Web: undergrad.cos.ucf.edu. Phone: 407-823-6131. Email: cosas@mail.ucf.edu.

Coursework: the 80/56 Rule

The Nicholson School of Communication follows accreditation standards created by the Accrediting Council for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication (ACEJMC). Ad/PR has implemented policies that will enable it to satisfy ACEJMC’s standards. A major part of complying with accreditation involves a rule that encourages students to obtain a broad, liberal arts education. Students must:

- Complete a minimum of 80 hours outside of the disciplines represented within the Nicholson School of Communication (most general education classes count)
- 56 of the 80 hours must be in the Liberal Arts, excluding Communication, with the exception of Speech. (See Liberal Arts Courses for more information).

Note on Ad/PR major classes: Do try to take your Advertising/Public Relations classes toward the end of your academic career. You want to build momentum your last semesters here, and not be finishing with electives. Following is a template you can use as a guideline.

Notes on courses and electives

Any course taught by an Ad/PR faculty member is an approved Ad/PR elective—even if it is not listed on your audit.

ADV 4103 (RTV Advertising) is about selling radio and TV time, not about creating ads for broadcast.

MMC 3420 Mass Media Research Methods may be available in Summer term. MMC 3200 Mass Comm Law may be available in Summer term.

PUR 4110C (PR Publications) has a pre-requisite of PUR 3100 and VIC 3001 for catalog year 2016 and higher. It requires a subscription to the Adobe Creative Suite (Design Basic or Design Premium) software, for $30 a month.

PUR 4400 Crisis Communication is taught only in Fall term. PUR 3210 Corporate Social Responsibility is taught only in Spring. VIC 4312 Power Branding is taught only in Fall.

VIC 3001 (Visual Communication) is taught online in both fall and spring and many times in summer. If you took it already, it will either count as a required core or a restricted elective, depending on your catalog year. See a NASSC advisor to figure out how this course is being used on your degree audit.

Credit Hours

You need 120 credit hours to graduate from UCF. Your general education program, or GEP, (fulfilled by an AA degree at community college or coursework at UCF), make up 60 hours. The Ad/PR major is 39 hours, so you’ll need another 27 or 21 hours of electives, respectively. You may want to consider a minor. See the section on minors.

Facebook

We have a fan page on Facebook. This allows students to keep up to date with important information regarding scholarships, registration advisement, workshops, new courses that are offered through the Advertising/Public Relations major in the NSC. Search for UCF Ad/PR and LIKE it. Note: Faculty cannot conduct advising through Facebook. Additional Facebook groups you may be interested in joining include UCF Ad Club, and Quotes, the PR Club. There is also a student-run Facebook group called Advertising/Public Relations.

Faculty

The Ad/PR major has five full-time faculty members and four adjunct faculty members.

Mr. Doug Blemker
Doug.blemker@ucf.edu

Dr. Melissa Dodd
Melissa.dodd@ucf.edu

Ms. Lindsay Hudock
Adjuncts are professionals from the local advertising and public relations community. For a complete list of full-time faculty and bios, go to the Nicholson School of Communication Web site and click on People. Web: http://communication.cos.ucf.edu/people/faculty.php.

Notes: All advising must be done through University email. Faculty are not on campus 5 days a week or 52 weeks a year. When school is not in session, faculty members are rarely around to advise or assist you.

Foreign Language Requirement
Advertising/Public Relations majors are required to have two semesters of a foreign language to graduate. American Sign Language is accepted beginning catalog year 2012, but it requires three courses. No amount of high school foreign language will fulfill this requirement. You can test out of your foreign language requirement. Contact the Testing Center, HPH 106, 407 823-5109.

Graphic Design Certification Programs
The Ad/PR program does not emphasize classes in graphic design. You can take classes at Valencia and transfer the credits in. Valencia offers certificates in graphic design. The first is a technical certificate in graphic design production, which can be completed in one year. The next level is a certificate in graphic design support, which can be completed in as little as one semester. A one-year certificate in graphics and interactive design production is also available.

Internships
In an internship, students work in an organization, carrying out specific job functions that relate to the advertising and public relations field and earn college credit. Advertising/Public Relations majors are required to do one, 3-credit hour internship to graduate. You must have completed (not be currently enrolled in) either ADV 3008 to do an advertising internship or PUR 4000 to do a public relations internship. An internship is required for several reasons: it provides essential hands-on experience to develop real-world skills that you cannot get in the classroom, and because there is no better way to find your first job in the field than with practical experience and professional connections. Internships provide both while you are still in school.

Internships are graded as S/U—Satisfactory or Unsatisfactory—and not by letter grade. It does not affect your GPA, but it does count toward your 120 hours required for graduation and your 33 hours required in Ad/PR.

Internships can be found in several ways.

1. You can find your own. Want to go home for the summer, or to another city, and work in an ad agency or a company that performs marketing communication functions? You can do that. Just bring a job description to your faculty adviser along with a completed internship form for approval.
2. Attend Intern Pursuit. This is a meet-and-greet program held each Fall and Spring where local advertising and public relations professionals gather to find UCF Ad/PR interns. The next event will be held on Monday, Oct. 24, 2016. In 2017, the dates are Monday, March 20, and Thursday, Oct. 19. Time is 6 to 8 p.m. in the Pegasus Ballroom. Business attire required.
3. Search www.InternQueen.com, Started by Ad/PR Alum Lauren Berger, this internship web site has opportunities all over the country, all year long. You can also follow Intern Queen on Twitter and Facebook.
4. Join our Intern Connect group on LinkedIn. Once you are on LinkedIn, request to join the group: Ad/PR at UCF Intern Connect. Watch for internships posted on the site. Students can find an internship that interests them and contact the person listed in Intern Connect.
5. Contact the Office of Experiential Learning. This office has some national opportunities. Contact Chinyen.Chuo@ucf.edu.
Credit Hour to Hours on the Job formula. Internships follows this formula. In Fall and Spring, a 15-week semester, the formula is 1-to-3. For every credit hour you register for, you need to work a minimum of three hours a week on the job. So, a 3-credit hour internship (the most popular) requires 9 hours a week on the job. In Summer, when the semester is 12 weeks, the formula is 1-to-4. So three credit hours requires 12 hours a week on the job.

Summer internships are in Summer C term. You cannot intern only Summer A or only Summer B.

Note on internship hours: No matter how many credits you register for, you will get the most out of your internship experience by working full days. Try to put in two full days a week to increase your chances of working on projects and not just doing busy work.

Registering for an internship. You cannot register yourself. There are multiple steps to register an internship, and the steps are described here. Please review them when you find an internship.

STEP 1: Complete the Internship Registration Form, which can be downloaded from the NSC Web site. (link) Fill out your part. Do not have your employer fill out the entire form for you.

STEP 2: Take the form with your part filled out to your internship employer, have him or her complete the employer part, and you both sign it.

Note: The first two days of every semester (Monday and Tuesday), Lindsay Hudock and Joan McCain will be hosting an Internship Orientation where paperwork completed through Step 2 is signed in NSC 254 the first two days of the term. We also conduct the Orientations on Study Day every semester.

STEP 3: You then have to take the signed form to NASSC, NSC 143, where the staff will generate paperwork. In peak registration times, you may have to come back 24 hours later.

STEP 4: After that paperwork is complete, you need to take it all to COSAS where they will register your internship credit. Have your ID with you.

Deadline for Registering an internship. All internship paperwork must be signed by Ad/PR faculty 48 hours prior to the end of Add/Drop. Do not wait until the first week of classes to begin the internship registration process, or you will find long lines, no faculty around to sign your form, and increased frustration. We hold orientations and sign paperwork every Study Day, and at scheduled times the first two days of the term. You will be emailed the days and times.

The Internship Class. There is a Webcourse component to internships. You will diary regularly during your internship and the faculty supervisor will check in with you, providing feedback and input as necessary. A mid-term assignment and final assignment are required and will be explained in the course and at the Orientation.

Other Internship Paperwork. The Internship Agreement Form is the only form an Ad/PR faculty member will sign. Some out-of-area internships ask for verification of students receiving credit for the internship and ask for faculty to write letters certifying this. Our response will be for students to show the employers their fee invoice. Because of the size and scope of our internship program, faculty members do not have time to deal with letters and paperwork, which many times are about things we have no authority to approve or certify. If internship employers are insistent on their own paperwork being completed, you need to do your internship through the Office of Experiential Learning.

Receiving the S/U grade for an internship. Your internship supervisor will complete a survey about your performance in your internship. You will forward the link to the survey to your intern supervisor.

Introductory Classes

There are two classes you must take before being admitted into the major: ADV 3008 (Principles of Advertising), and PUR 4000 (Introduction to Public Relations). You must complete these courses with a “C” average or better. These are large lecture classes and are open to any student at UCF. They are the pre-requisites to the rest of the classes in the Ad/PR major. They are also pre-requisites for any student to complete an advertising or public relations internship.
Liberal Arts Courses

In the UCF catalog, most courses marked with the initials COS (College of Sciences—but NOT Communication) or CAH (College of Arts and Humanities) counts toward the 56 credit hour requirement.

Schools, majors, and programs that count are:

Astronomy (AST 2002), Economics (ECO 2013, 2023), Geography (GEO 1200) and SPC 1608 or 1603 also count toward liberal arts courses.

Marketing and Hospitality Management, popular minors for Ad/PR majors, do not count toward Liberal Arts. If you want to minor in Marketing or Hospitality Management you need to meet with an Ad/PR adviser early in your academic career to make sure you are on track with your Liberal Arts hours and can add the other classes without delaying graduation.

MAIP

This is the Multi-cultural Advertising Internship Program through the American Association of Advertising Agencies (4As). Students are placed in summer internships in top agencies in the country, provided housing, and paid for the experience. To be eligible, students must be Asian/Asian American, Latino/Hispanic, Black/African American, American Indian/Native American, Multiracial or Multiethnic; a junior, senior or graduate student at the time of application; have a GPA of 3.2; a citizen or permanent resident of the US. For more information, go to: http://www.aaaa-maip.org/. You may see some UCF Ad/PR alumni in the photos—and many of them got their first jobs through the program.

Minors for Ad/PR majors

You do not have to have a minor, but minors do help direct your 27 elective hours. (Minors are typically 15 or 18 hours of focused course work.) Also, if you are waiting for admission into the Ad/PR program, working on a minor is a great use of time. Some applicable and popular minors with our students are Writing & Rhetoric, Sociology, Political Science, Cultural Anthropology, History, Psychology, Digital Media. You can check out the pre-requisites for these minors in UCF’s online catalog under each program. Web: http://www.catalog.sdes.ucf.edu/current/degree_programs/.

Nicholson Academic Student Services Center (NASSC)

NSC 143 is the location for the office Communication students visit for registration problems, questions, and information. All of this can be found in one convenient location. This is also where you go to get your official audit before meeting with a faculty adviser. Registration problems are addressed here. Phone: 407 823 2681. Put this number in your phone. They know faculty office hours, the internship registration process, and any details about the major that are on this sheet.

Orientation Session

When you are accepted into the Advertising/Public Relations major, you will be invited to a mandatory orientation meeting to go over important information that will assist you in progressing through the Ad/PR major. This session will be held approximately three weeks after the application deadline for the semester you were admitted.
Overrides
There are no overrides into the following classes: PR Publications, Writing for PR, Advertising Copywriting, Ad/PR Campaigns. The other classes in the major have no need for overrides. Restricted access into our major eliminates the need for overrides as every student can be accommodated because we do not have more students than we can serve. Overrides cannot be given because of your work schedule, your preference for a particular teacher, day or time of class, or your extra curricular activities. Graduating seniors are the only students who can bring a case for needing a particular class to a faculty adviser when rare circumstances prevent them from graduating on time. Even under those circumstances, an override is not given and a creative solution is figured out based on that case.

Professional Associations
Ad2 Orlando is the young professionals division of the American Advertising Federation-Orlando and is exclusive to individuals ages 18 to 32. Ad2 exists solely to address the needs of young people interested in advertising, marketing and public relations. Visit http://www.ad2orlando.org/ for more information or join the “Ad2 Orlando: Young Professionals in Advertising” Facebook group to find important information/updates and to get connected with other members.

American Advertising Federation (AAF) is the oldest national advertising trade association, representing 50,000 professionals in the advertising industry, acting as the “unifying voice for advertising.” Membership fees are $130 and $75 for non-profit members. For students, AAF offers Ad2 for young professionals (see Student Associations).

American Marketing Association (AMA) is the largest marketing association in North America. It is a professional association for individuals and organizations involved in the practice, teaching and study of marketing worldwide. Visit http://www.amacentralflorida.org/ for more information on the Orlando chapter.

Florida Public Relations Association (FPRA) is the largest and oldest association of public relations professionals in the state of Florida. For students, the UCF chapter of this association is “Quotes” (see Student Associations). Visit http://www.fpra-orlando.org/ for more information on the Orlando chapter.

Public Relations Society of America (PRSA) is the world's largest organization for public relations professionals with nearly 20,000 members organized into 116 chapters worldwide. The Orlando chapter represents members that are a diverse mix of mid- to senior-level practitioners with a passion and commitment to engaging and growing the practice of public relations in Central Florida. Visit http://www.prsaorlando.org/ for more information on the Orlando chapter.

Registration Problems
If you encounter a problem while registering for classes, the only two people who can help you are Rebecca Morales and Sierra Cater in the Nicholson Academic Student Service Center, NSC 143. Your faculty adviser cannot assist you with pre-requisite issues. Contact them: Rebecca Morales, email: Rebecca.Morales@ucf.edu, Sierra.Cater@ucf.edu. It is best to visit in person.

Scholarships
Ad/PR students have many opportunities for scholarships. Visit the College of Sciences website for details and to apply.

Darden Restaurant Scholarship
$1,000 awarded to junior or senior Communication student based on financial need, as determined by FASA. One page essay on career aspirations and need required.

You may also want to visit the UCF Alumni Association Web site for other scholarships:
www.ucfallumni.com/scholarships.

Student Associations
Quotes is the student chapter of the Florida Public Relations Association (FPRA). Active for more than 25 years, Quotes is also the largest chapter of FPRA in the state. The membership fee for new members is $45 and $35 for renewing members. Cash and checks are accepted, with checks payable to Quotes. Visit www.quotesucf.com for more information or join the “Quotes r Club” on Facebook to find important information and to get connected with other members.

Ad Club at UCF is the student chapter of the American Advertising Federation (AAF). The club works closely with the local AAF chapters, the Orlando Advertising Federation (OAF) and Ad2. Member fees are $45 and entitles you to the internship bank and membership to the different organizations. Visit www.ucfadclub.com for more information or join the “Ad Club” group on Facebook to find important information/updates and to get connected with other members.

Study Abroad
The Nicholson School of Communication has a growing Study Abroad program. Students can study for a semester in Sweden, Australia, Austria, Spain, England and other locations through an agreement NSC has crafted with each school. Laurel Poole in NASSC can provide information.

Summer Classes
Advertising/Public Relations traditionally does not offer required classes in the major during the summer. ADV 3008 (Principles of Advertising) is usually offered in the summer, but you would have already completed this course. Majors are encouraged to intern during the summer, and this does fulfill your summer hour requirement for graduation. You can also take electives, foreign language, or classes in your minor.
