UCF IC CAE Student Research Award

The Central Florida ICCAE is offering a Student Research Award for undergraduate students conducting research related to intelligence and national security, broadly understood. Undergraduate students doing an HIM thesis, conference paper, independent study, or other faculty-supervised project that relates to intelligence and national security are eligible to apply.

While the ICCAE is located in the School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs, students in other social sciences, STEM fields, engineering, the humanities, and other programs are eligible to apply if their project will enhance their knowledge and skills in areas that are beneficial to a career in intelligence and national security. The awards are designed to support student research expenses and applicants can request up to $1,000. Funds will not be awarded to support travel to conferences present findings.

The Central Florida ICCAE is a grant-funded program, housed in UCF's School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs that seeks to facilitate the professional development of students for future work in intelligence and national security. For a list of degrees and skills that are in critical need for the intelligence community please visit www.intelligencecareers.gov/

Applicants must:

- be a current degree-seeking undergraduate student at a CF ICCAE school
- show that they are engaging in course work that is relevant to a future career in intelligence or national security and have an interest in working in those fields
- be a U.S. citizen

Applicants must provide the following:

- A completed application
- A resume or CV
- A one page description of your project, with a timeline on how long it will take to complete the project and a paragraph on how you would use the money
- A letter of recommendation from the student's faculty supervisor

DEADLINE: Friday, February 2nd, 2024

Applicants should be aware that this award may affect their financial assistance status
