

Amanda Grinley

EDUCATION

Ph.D. Industrial and Organizational Psychology in progress at the University of Central Florida

Expected in May 2023

M.S. in Industrial and Organizational Psychology in progress at the University of Central Florida

Expected in May 2020

Bachelor of Science in Psychology and Anthropology minor

May 2017

University of Florida

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Research Assistant for the Leadership Lab

January 2014- May 2017

Advised by Dr. Joyce Bono; Department of Management, University of Florida

- Participated in numerous studies as an experimenter
- Involved in collecting and interpreting data, including video coding
- Participated in a project coding real field data from a business company
- Conducted multiple literature reviews
- Consistently maintained proper management of research equipment

Research Assistant for the Human Resource Research Center (HRRC)

January 2016- May 2017

Advised by Dr. Mo Wang; Department of Management, University of Florida

- Conducted literature reviews
- Assisted in running studies as an experimenter
- Collected and recorded data in appropriate databases

TEACHING ASSISTANT EXPERIENCE

Teaching Assistant, The Psychology of Pseudoscience (PSY4625)

January 2017- May 2017

Taught by Dr. Ken Swan; Psychology Department, University of Florida

- Provided individualized and constructive feedback to students on course performance
- Performed data entry into reporting system
- Responsible for grading assignments and exams

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Intern for Semaine de la Critique

May 2016

69th Cannes Film Festival; Cannes, France

- Directed and worked together with team of staff and interns in a fast environment to meet a wide variety of needs from hundreds of film festival guests in a foreign language
- Analyzed and organized theater space to improve performance of fellow interns and facilitate their aid of guests
- Operated and set up varying equipment as needed

SKILLS

Microsoft Office

Word, PowerPoint, Excel

Microsoft Outlook

Calendar, Email, OneDrive

Fluent in French